
The Chairman of Russia's I.C. Alexander Bastrykin gave instruction to the investigators to check the fact of non-delivery of medical care to a mother of many children from Kaliningrad

The Chairman of Russia's I.C. Alexander Bastrykin gave instruction to the head of the Russia's Investigative Committee department for the Kaliningrad Region to organize a proceedings check in the connection with non-delivery of aid to an aggrieved woman on the part of medical officers.

On April 24, 2016 a story about mother of many children Olga Buzikova from Kaliningrad sustaining a spine fracture after the accident and turning chained to bed was shown on one TV channel. At the same time, it is reported, the physicians sent her home. In addition, Alexander Bastrykin asked the investigators to find out if necessary social support provided for by law was extended to children from the large family.

Based on the results of a check a proceeding decision will be taken.
