

---

Man, suspected in blocking way to ambulance on south of Moscow, found and detained

The Moscow Office of the Head Office of the Investigative Committee continues criminal investigation against 34-years-old man, accused in hooliganism under Part 1 of Article 213 of the RF Penal Code.

According to investigators, on 20 April 2017 the man was driving a SUV along Solnechnaya Street in Moscow and blocked the way to an ambulance with the patient on board. The SUV driver stopped in front of an ambulance, left the car and started arguing with the driver of the children ambulance.

Thanks to well-planned and rapid actions of the Head Office investigators, the 34-year-old resident of Moscow was detained as suspect in the crime.

Medical workers and the suspect were questioned by investigators, the apartment and the car of the person of interest were searched, the dashcam of an ambulance car was seized as evidence.

Investigative operations are underway to gather and prove evidence on the case. The restraint measures for the accused is being decided upon. Criminal Investigation is ongoing.

---

23 April 2017

Page address: <https://en.sledcom.ru/news/item/1118483>