
Materials of Interstate Aviation Committee entered upon probe into crash of An-148

Within the probe by investigators of the Main Directorate on Major Crimes Investigation of the Investigative Committee of Russia, data on the readings of the flight recorders of the An-148 aircraft crashed on February 11 in the Moscow Region were obtained from Interstate Aviation Committee specialists. The materials of the IAC have entered the probe and are being examined by the investigators.

Currently, the investigation proactive: the work at the crash site continues; investigators are also working in other towns, seizing documents and questioning witnesses; the seized documentation is being studied; a complex of forensic examinations has been arranged. The results of the investigation alone will reliably establish all the circumstances of the tragedy, based on which the investigation will take a procedural decision.
