
Nizhny Novgorod Regional Investigations Directorate of the Investigative Committee of Russia motions to refer money returned to the state from tax crimes to acquiring housing for orphaned children

The provision of citizens with social guarantees is the main duty of the state. Above all, it refers to children left without parental care for various reasons. For example, investigators in Nizhny Novgorod Region have developed a special algorithm for solving this issue.

The Nizhny Novgorod Regional Investigations Directorate of the Investigative Committee of Russia has asked the Governor to refer all the money returned to the regional budget following the investigation of tax crimes to acquiring housing for orphaned children.

The use of this mechanism will help to provide approximately 150 orphan children with housing in H1 2019 alone. The greater justice it is, to use the budgetary funds that schemers wanted to spend on personal enrichment to solve the vital problem--providing housing for the most socially vulnerable group of citizens.
