The program “According to Investigation...”: past years crimes

An unsolved crime is not only a figure spoiling the performance indicators of a department or directorate. It is unpunished evil, unrepentant criminal, trampled justice. When the Investigative Committee of Russia was established as a separate agency, it inherited all the unsolved cases. Throughout the country, their number amounted to hundreds of thousands. From the first days of its work, investigation of unsolved past years crimes became one of the biggest priorities of the Investigative Committee of Russia. This episode of “According to Investigation...” is devoted to the methods and results of this work. You will also learn the following: How is the material evidence of past years' crimes stored? What new information can they provide to modern investigators? How to take a look in the past from space?

The new episode of “According to Investigation...” is available on the official YouTube channel of the Investigative Committee of Russia - <https://youtu.be/CAKoeVJzSC4>
