
The Investigative Committee of Russia presents the second volume of book "The Crime of the Century. Investigative materials" about the investigation of the murder of the royal family

The second volume of the book prepared by the Investigative Committee of Russia, which tells about the investigation into the murder of the royal family, has been published. This is a unique publication that contains materials from the investigation and historical documents related to the death of the Russian Emperor Nicholas II, his family and their entourage.

The second volume also tells about the stages of the investigation into the murder of the royal family, which is based strictly on scientific facts, historical and archival documents. Also, the book is based on modern expert research, photographs, audio recordings, recreated 3-D models of the place of the event, which allow you to understand in detail what happened.

Thanks to the painstaking work carried out, modern high technologies, the investigation did not have any doubts about the version of the death of the royal family and the ownership of the remains. The results of the investigation of this crime are internationally recognized.

In order to apply the information received in the work, copies of the book will be sent to various government agencies. The book will also be handed over to representatives of the Russian Orthodox Church. Now the Council of Bishops is considering the results of examinations for the identification of the "Yekaterinburg remains", presented, among other things, by the Investigative Committee of Russia. This book will be of great help to all those interested in establishing the truth in this matter.
