
The Chairman of the Investigative Committee of Russia instructs to report on the inspection interim results relative to causing harm to the health of a young child in Kamchatka Krai

On December 17, the driver of the snowplow did not notice the boy who was nearby and covered him with snow, this happened on one of the streets of the Vilyuchinsk city during snow removal. The child was injured as a result of the incident. Currently there is no threat to the child's life. The Investigating Authorities of the Russian Investigative Committee for Kamchatka Krai organized a pre-investigative inspection on this.

The Chairman of the Investigative Committee of Russia instructed Mr. V.V Kulakov, Head of the Investigative Directorate for Kamchatka Krai, to submit a report on the interim results of the inspection.
