
Evidence are transshipped from the vessel Arctic Sea

The evidence collected by the investigation team of the General Investigative Office of the Investigative Committee of the Prosecutor-General's of the Russian Federation have been transshipped from the vessel Arctic Sea to one of the vessels accompanying the warship Ladniy.

There are some ammunition the accused of piracy were using during the hijacking, and the boat on which they reached the ship. The boat was camouflaged on board the Arctic Sea. It was in a wooden frame covered with a tarpaulin.

The evidence will be delivered to the Russian port, to which the warship Ladniy and accompanying vessels will arrive. These evidence will be used for further criminal investigation.

18 September 2009

Page address: <https://en.sledcom.ru/news/item/509315>