
6-year-old boy lost at city beach on 11 July found in Perm Territory

In the morning of 12 July law enforcement bodies got a message that a 6-year-old boy got lost at the river Kama city beach near the shop Rechnik in Motovilikhinsky district of Perm. Perm Territory investigating bodies of Russia's Investigative Committee opened launched a pre-investigation check into the fact. As a result of measures taken the boy was found today at about 6:30 p.m.

According to preliminary data, there were no crimes committed against the child and he has no injuries. After careful medical examination the boy will be returned to his parents. At present nothing threatens his health or life.

Presently checks are ongoing to find all circumstances and causes of the incident, the persons involved in disappearance of the child are being questioned, his living and upbringing background is being verified. A procedural decision will be taken after all necessary measures.

12 July 2012

Page address: <https://en.sledcom.ru/news/item/509940>