
Media information on discovery of one of An-2 passengers checked in Sverdlovsk Region

In the evening of 18 July 2012, Pyt-Yakh duty office of Directorate of Ministry of Internal Affairs received a message from Pyt-Yakh district hospital that an unknown man died in a resuscitation department. Media connect this fact with the An-2 plane which got missing on 11 June 2012 in Serov district of Sverdlovsk Region.

Investigators of Urals Transport Investigations Directorate of Russia's Investigative Committee are identifying a man within the framework of the criminal case.

It was established that, on 17 July 2012 the man aged 40-45 without documents had been found in grave condition by traffic police team of Nefteyugansky district, later an ambulance had delivered him in the Pyt-Yakh district hospital where died not recovering conscience. There were scratches and insect bites on the man's bodies.

At the moment investigating bodies are identifying the body and death cause.

20 July 2012

Page address: <https://en.sledcom.ru/news/item/509946>