
Airborne recorders found and seized from An-28 fall place

Investigation group of the Far Eastern Transport Investigations Directorate of the Russia's Investigative Committee together with representatives of International Aviation Committee have found at the An-28 plane fall place so called blackboxes.

Airborne recorders were found and recovered from the plane's hull during the examination of the accident scene. At present the recorders are given to specialists of International Aviation Committee for deciphering.

Officials of the Investigations directorate are also carrying out investigating operations in Petropavlovsk-Kamchatsky to establish all circumstances of the accident. Investigation is to be continued.

14 September 2012

Page address: <https://en.sledcom.ru/news/item/509991>