
Criminologists of Central Office of Russia's Investigative Committee arrived in Perm Territory to assist in search for school boy missing in Krasnokamsk

The investigating bodies of the Russia's Investigative Committee in Perm Territory continue investigating a criminal case launched into signs of the crime under paragraph "c" of part 2 of article 105 of the RF Penal Code (murder of a minor).

We remind that 11 October 2013, 7-year-old Kirill Usoltsev left school after the lessons with his class mates, but did not come home. The boy's parents reported the missing child to law enforcement bodies.

Today specialists of the Main Criminalistics Office of the Russia's Investigative Committee continued examining the reservoir in Krasnokamsk using the latest specialized forensic equipment. In all they are going to examine 13 reservoirs. Earlier rescuers of the local Emergency Ministry have scanned the reservoir, but to no result. After that it was decided to use forensic equipment of the Central Office of the Investigative Committee.

In addition, investigators of the local investigations directorate continue to look at other versions of the disappearance of a child, however there is no information about the circumstances in which the child went missing or about his current whereabouts. Investigation is ongoing.
