
Board chairman and senior vice-president of Rosbank suspected of bribe

Moscow Investigations Directorate of the Russia's Investigative Committee has brought legal action against Rosbank board chairman Vladimir Golubkov and vice-president of the same bank Tamara Polyantsina. They are suspected of a crime under part 3 of article 204 of the RF Criminal Code (commercial bribe on an especially grand scale).

According to investigators, Golubkov through his inferior Polyantsina demanded from a representative of a commercial organization more than 1 million US dollars for extending time to run and decreasing the interest on multi-million dollars loan. During 2012-2013 he received the sum by several tranches. While receiving the last portion of 5 million rubles Golubkov and Polyantsina were held by law enforcement agents.

In the near future investigators are going to decide about restraint for the accused. At present investigating operations are underway to find all the circumstances of the crime. Investigation is to be continued.
