In addition, drainage ditches were made along the roads, dumps of roadways and foundation pits were dug for future buildings. Building and laying communications grossly violated the current regimes of land use.

This way, the above-stated involved breakage of historical scenery and integral historical concept of the whole territory of the sight, distortion of visual comprehension of the territory of the cultural historical sight and consequently a considerable violation of interests of the society and the state protected by the law. The cost of restoring meadows and other lands of XV-XIX centuries in the historical territories of the ancient city of Radonezh is estimated at no less than 7 million rubles.
