
Three men detained for attacking woman in Moscow charged and remanded in custody

As it has been reported earlier, at night of 18 October 2013, in the east of Moscow near house No 18 in Suzdalsky Street, unidentified people attacked a 58-year-old woman. They beat her, raped, subjected to other sexual abuses and stole from her two cell phones and money and then fled the scene. The investigating bodies of Moscow Main Investigative Committee launched a criminal investigation into crimes under articles 131, 132 and 161 of the RF Penal Code (rape, sexual abuse and robbery).

During the investigating and search operations the investigators in cooperation with Moscow police in shortest possible time have identified the three persons suspected of the crime. They are Kirgiz nationals, who have already testified confirming their involvement in the crime. During the search in the suspects' flats the investigators seized 6 cell phones

Depending on the roles of each one the investigators have already charged them and today the court ruled to place them in custody. During the investigating the men will be checked on involvement in other similar crimes committed in Moscow. The investigation is ongoing.
