
Former senior officer of Novosibirsk Main Office of Interior Ministry Sergey Dubovik to stand trial

The Main Investigations Directorate of the Russia's Investigative Committee in the city of Novosibirsk has finished investigating a criminal case against Sergey Dubovik, former deputy head of investigation office of the Novosibirsk Region Main Office of the Russian Interior Ministry. He is charged with crimes under part 4 of article 159 of the RF Penal Code (fraud committed by a person using their official position on a very large scale).

According to investigators, in 2008 Dubovik aware that an investigator was going to wrap up a criminal investigation due to the lack of crime in the actions of the head of a commercial firm, decided to steal money from businessmen using his official position. For that he misled them about his assisting in closing the case. After that Dubovik received 2 million rubles through the businessmen's lawyer as a bribe for his alleged assistance.

After the case was initiated in April 2010, Dubovik hid from investigators and was wanted internationally for a long time. On 29 April 2014, Dubovik was held and remanded in custody pending a trial.

The investigators have gathered enough evidence, so the criminal case with the approved indictment has been sent to court to be tried on the merits.
