
Alexander Bastrykin orders Central Office to investigate Dalny Vostok wreckage case

The Chairman of the Russia's Investigative Committee has ordered to pass the case over the sinking of the Dalny Vostok sinking in the Sea of Okhots to the Main Investigations Directorate for the fullest, most impartial and quickest investigation.

A group of experienced investigators and criminalists of the central office has already been sent to the site.

The Russia's Investigative Committee is going to take every measure to identify all the responsible and find out reasons and conditions that contributed to the tragedy.
